VOL. LXXXVIII. CENTRE HALL, PA., THURSDAY, JUNE 3, 1915. NO. 22

EVANGELIST FOR CENTRE HALL.

Rev. Paul Brown and Party to Begin Campaign Tuesday, July 13th.

Rev. Paul Brown, evangelist, at the close of his campaign in Millheim, will begin a similar work in Centre Hall, according to a decision of the local ministerium which met in the United Evangelical church on Monday afternoon. It was at that time agreed that a call be tendered the evangelist to conduct a campaign here, to begin on Tuesday evening, July 13th. Several sites for the erection of the tabernacle are under consideration but the one preferred is a strip of ground to the rear of the Reformed church and owned by the school board. The tabernacle to be used will be the same one in use at Millheim at the present time and after it has served its purpose here will be demolished and sold on the ground.

Rev. Brown does not ask that a cash guarantee be made him but will work on the same plan as the majority of evangelists; namely, receive a free-will offering on the last night of the campaign.

More definite plans will be announced later.

A Mighty Centre County Hunter.

Henry W. Shoemaker, who loves to delve into the wild-life history of Centre county, has lately discovered one who in his day was the mightiest slayer of panthers in Pennsylvania. His story, taken from the Altoona Tribune, follows:

There are many people in Central Pennsylvania who believe that the last panther in Pennsylvania was the eleven foot monster killed by Solomon Boos, of Newry, in 1878. But there have been a number of these giant cats killed in the state since then.

Several months ago Game Commissioner Coleman K. Sober, of Union county, called the writer's attention to a mighty hunter, Aaron Hall, a resident of Centre county, who died at his spacious mansion at the foot of the Allegheny Mountains, back of Unionville in 1892. Mr. Hall, it appears, was the greatest Pennsylvania hunter of recent years. Up to 1869 he had killed forty Pennsylvania lions or panthers, and twelve of them in a single winter. Most of his hunting was done on Rock Run, and Mr. Sober says that when he visited the famous nimrod one season he had eleven panther hides at his home. When the writer was at the Hall residence last month three of the hides remained, and he was fortunate enough to secure them from one of the hunter's sons, Miles Hall.

In speaking of the last panthers in the state young Mr. Hall stated that two were killed in Centre county within the last quarter of a century, one a half-grown specimen by John Uzzle, of Snow Shoe, in 1885, and a large one in 1886 by John Lucas, of Gum Stump, at Beecher's Camp.

Seth Nelson, a noted Clinton county hunter, once told the writer that several panthers were killed in Clinton and Centre counties as late as 1893. By the bounty records of Centre county it is shown that George G. Hastings collected rewards for two panthers in 1871, and in 1886 John Lucas presented a scalp. Several days ago the writer enjoyed an interesting chat with a veteran Clinton county hunter, Mr. S. Alexander Wadsworth. This gentleman related having seen an eleven foot panther in a trap on Eddy Lick Run in Centre county in 1878. The animal was trapped and shot by Bill Perry, a veteran hunter of Keating, Clinton county. Mr. Wadsworth described the animal as striped about the hind quarters and having savage teeth. He said that Mr. Perry collected a bounty on the scalp.

This was the first the writer had heard of the Perry panther, and it makes the total of Pennsylvania lions killed in this state since 1860 foot up to a high figure. And there is a chance that the stately Pennsylvania lion is not wholly extinct within our boundaries. Blair, Cambria, Clinton and Mifflin counties have had "panther scares" within the past two years but best of all the animals have been seen and heard by reputable persons. So interesting and beautiful as the woods are the wild denizens that rightfully inhabit them.

Lee-Atkins.

Announcements have been issued of the marriage of Charles Wilford Lee to Miss Florence Mae Atkins, Saturday, May 29th, at Penbrook, Dauphin county. The groom is well known in Penns Valley and is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Lee, Sr., of Spring Mills.

Yes, It's Great.

It must be great to be a man! One dress suit lasts you for years and years, and a woman must have a new gown for every party.

That's why one dress suit lasts a man for years and years.

Memorial Day Observed.

Memorial Day was observed in Centre Hall on Saturday. The day was disagreeable, rain falling intermittently throughout the day, although it ceased sufficiently at the scheduled hour to make possible carrying out the exercises at the cemetery. The line of march was formed at the Evangelical church and was headed by a number of children who carried flowers. Following were the veterans whose ranks have been invaded during the past year and one—John A. Mariz—summoned by the Great Commander. The remaining veterans are Capt. G. M. Boal, B. D. Brisbin, W. A. Krise, D. L. Kerr, W. E. Snyder, W. H. Bartholomew, Alfred Durst and W. H. Stiver. Mr. Stiver was unable to take part in the march owing to illness. Following the veterans came the Aaronsburg band and lastly the local I. O. O. F. lodge members. The band before joining in the parade proceeded to the home of Mr. Stiver and honored him with a selection. At the cemetery the band played a dirge after which the daughters placed flowers on the graves of the departed soldiers. This ceremony completed, a large number proceeded to the Methodist church where Rev. D. S. Kurtz delivered a fitting oration.

The names of the veterans who participated in the various wars, buried in the local cemetery are appended:

Charles Peterson	William Boozer
Samuel Shannon	William Bible
Amos Parker	John Thomas
John W. Dinges	James Foster
Simon Wolf	Reubin Stump
William P. Shoop	James McClenahan
William Horner	Andrew Gregg
Robert M. Murray	Philip Floray
John Heinley	Jerry Schreffler
Adam Nearhood	William A. Jacobs
Simon Harper	Michael Derstine
John Foreman	Michael Krumbine
Lewis Sunday	John Riter
George Sweeney	John Martz
George Koch	John Odenkirk
Wm. Maben	Unknown
Michael Stiver	John Thomas

1776 Soldiers' Graves Decorated.

The Bellefonte Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution made a trip through Penns Valley on Friday and planted flags on the graves of Revolutionary soldiers. Mrs. H. C. Valentine of Bellefonte had this work in charge and although she endeavored to locate all the graves of Revolutionary soldiers throughout the valley there are undoubtedly some graves lying in remote parts of the valley that are unknown to her. Readers of this paper who know of any other graves than those named below are requested to make them known to this office and the D. A. R. will give them due attention in following years. In company with Mrs. Valentine was Miss Eliza Egbert Morris, chairman of the committee on grave marking. The following graves were marked:

Christian Miller, Michael Stiver in Centre Hall cemetery.

Frederick Ream, in the Pennington cemetery, near Centre Hall.

Old Fort marker, at Old Fort.

James Houston, buried on the J. A. Keller farm.

Jacob Schadacre and Thomas VanDoran, in Indian Lane.

Col. Henry Meyer, Philip Meyer, in Rebersburg cemetery.

Andrew Hunter, Jacob Keller, Eleazer Evans, Peter Shuey, in Boalsburg cemetery.

John Adam Sunday, in Cross Church cemetery, Georges Valley.

Col. James Dunlop, Capt. Joshua Williams, Hon. Andrew Gregg, James Harris, in the Union cemetery, Bellefonte.

Capt. Richard Miles, Robert Fleming, William Lee, Joseph White, Samuel Howe, in the Old Milesburg cemetery.

John Snyder and Matthew Allison, in the Jacksonville cemetery.

Elijah Chambers, James McGaghan, in Gray's cemetery, near Stormstown.

Evan Russell, Lawrence Bathurst, Philip Barnhart, in Old Curtin cemetery.

Michael Stiver and John Fred Ream, in Heckman's cemetery.

Towns Rich Without Booze.

Authorities of Mifflin and Mifflintown, known as the twin towns of Juniata county, give the following changes under no licenses:

Two movies, both making a good living.

Four restaurants, each doing a good business.

Three hotels, all enjoying good health.

Merchants say business is better and accounts are paid promptly.

Bankers say less borrowing and small notes are a curiosity.

The streets are free from scenes of rowdyism. Ladies and children travel the streets at all hours unescorted and unmolested.

The outsider leaves in the same condition as he enters.

When subscriptions are solicited for any cause the necessary amount is quickly raised and the county needs no almshouse.

Automobile agents have sold out 1915 stock and have made good records in 1916 sales.

Men go home nights with packages containing necessities instead of those too frequently mistaken for the wife's corsets.

More ice cream sold than ever before.

People have forgotten that other conditions ever existed.

LOCALS WIN FIRST GAME.

Spring Mills Meets First Reverse at Hands of Centre Hall,—Score, 5 to 2.—Game Played in Rain.

In a drizzling rain which continued throughout the game the Centre Hall baseball team opened the season with a victory over the Spring Mills club by the score of 5 to 2, on Grange Park, Saturday afternoon. The victory was a clean cut one and well earned since all the runs were scored through timely and hard hitting.

Spring Mills opened the game as though they meant to make short work of Bradford. Eugene Gramley opened with a hit; Meyer hit one to P. Bradford on which the latter made a bad throw to first. With runners on first and second Windom Gramley lashed one along the third base line and scored his younger brother. This was Spring Mills best effort on the offensive and throughout the remainder of the game were helpless with the war club.

Centre Hall, in their first half, did even better. After the first two batters were disposed of "Milt" Bradford hit over short for a single. William Bradford proved that he had not lost his eye when he met one of Corman's straight ones for a titanic wallop over the left fielder's head. He perched on third when the ball was relayed to the infield and scored a moment later when Goodhart made an error on Knarr's effort. Spring Mills scored again in the fourth and this was their last. In the third, after two hands were down, Centre Hall scored two more. Incidentally, the local club scored all five runs after two men had been retired in three different innings. Two gone, Royer and Bailey placed hits in right and Kerlin scored both with a wallop to left. The pitchers were handicapped in their work because of the wet ball and after five innings had been played the game was called. Auman and Sinkabine ruled justly in their decisions and the game was devoid of disputes. A return game will be played at Spring Mills, June 24th, on the occasion of the community picnic.

The following box score shows the details of the contest.

Liquor Supporters to Fall from Church.

Any of the 20,000 members of the Susquehanna Synod of the Lutheran church "who is in any way identified with the liquor traffic" may fall from the church by virtue of a resolution at Selinsgrove on Sunday of last week at the annual synod session.

The resolution pledges support to Governor Brumbaugh in his local option fight, disavows support to all candidates in sympathy with the liquor traffic, declares "no candidate for admission into the church shall be received who is identified or in alliance with the liquor business," and concludes: "It is the sense of this body that any member of our congregation who is in any way identified with the liquor traffic or persists, after due counsel and admonition of his pastor and council in acting as bondsman for the traffic or signing a liquor license application, shall by this willful persistence in the violation of his church vow be liable to suspension from church membership."

Drafters of the resolution pointed out that all persons who rent property occupied by the trade or lend money to liquor dealers are included in the scope of the measure.

Child Struck by Automobile.

The eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Hunter of near Axe Mann is in the Bellefonte hospital, suffering from internal injuries as a result of being run down by an automobile while playing on the road near his home, Friday afternoon. Those who witnessed the accident state that it was impossible for the driver of the car to prevent striking the lad. The boy was cut open about the abdomen and part of the intestines protruded when he was picked up. He is getting along nicely and will be taken home in a few days.

New Roads Taken Over.

Seventy-seven new State highway routes were added to the State's system of main roads this week under the provisions of the act of July 22, 1913, and will come under complete control of the State Highway Department. The act of 1911 established 296 main routes and the General Assembly two years ago picked out 77 of about 100 routes and incorporated them in one bill.

This increase in routes will add 1000 miles to the State system. Under the present policy of the State Highway Department attention is being given to the repair and maintenance of the roads rather than to new construction, and but little beyond putting the new routes into good condition can be done in the next two years.

Thirty bills for new highway routes were introduced at the recent session, but only one passed, providing for a short road in Adams county, which connects with the proposed Lincoln highway to Washington.

Big Class to Graduate at "State."

Three hundred and sixty-five seniors will be graduated from the Pennsylvania State College at the fifty-fifth annual commencement exercises during the week of June 5 to 9. The class of 1915 is the largest that has yet gone out of Penn State College. Forty advanced degrees will be awarded to graduate students at the same time.

Commencement week at Penn State will be featured by the address of H. Walton Mitchell, of Pittsburgh, the first alumnus of the college so honored. Mr. Mitchell is president of the board of trustees.

More than 500 graduates have arranged to return to their alma mater for alumni day, June 8. Class reunions will be held for all classes that have gone out of Penn State for the last fifty years.

The Rev. N. M. Waters, of Brooklyn, N. Y., will preach the baccalaureate sermon on Sunday, June 6.

Primary School Report.

Report of primary school, closing May 20: Whole number in attendance, male 14, female 18; per cent of attendance, male 92, female 94. Those in attendance every day during last month: Lottie Keller, Luther Krebs, Joseph Ruble, Franklin Runkle, Helen Runkle, Ruth Runkle, Mary Weaver, Vianna Zettle, Florence Zettle, William Zettle and Theodore Breon. Two of these pupils, Lottie Keller and Joseph Ruble, attended every day during the term.—Helen Bartholomew, teacher.

Oklahoma Wants Men.

Not only is activity assured in the mills of the country, but in the fields as well, for according to the first general request sent out for help there will be room for 16,000 to 18,000 men in Oklahoma next month.

Postmaster Sites received a communication from the division of information of the Bureau of Information of the U. S. Department of Labor, which has been advised by the Commissioner of Labor, Oklahoma City, that wages will range from $2 to $3 a day and board. The department is informed that the vast majority of the farmers of Oklahoma who want harvest hands, prefer English speaking white men.

NEWS OF 1881.

Notes Taken From Files of The Centre Reporter of Thirty-four Years Ago.

August 18th—Simon Harper killed a black snake which measured six feet in length. He came across the reptile while at work on his farm below town.

The Patrons of Husbandry of Centre county will hold their annual picnic on top of Nittany Mountain, September 15th.

Rev. D. J. Mitterling will fill the appointments of Rev. Hunter, at Egg Hill and Zion churches, next Sabbath.

P. O. Stiver, who went to Illinois over a year ago, now here on a visit, has met with success as a teacher, and besides, has grown large and fat.

August 25th—John Coldron of Georges Valley has several acres of very fine tobacco.

The farm buildings and clear land belonging to Wolf, Grove and Mingle's tract, in Georges Valley, was sold to Mr. Lingle, in Gregg township, for $2,000.

The tobacco on John Hoffer's farm, adjoining town, is No. 1. There are some eight or ten acres out, under the management of Mr. Shultz, tenant on the farm. This is the first attempt here and it promises a success.

Died—On the 23rd inst., at Centre Hall, Christian, wife of Isaac Gift, aged forty-two years.

From the Millheim Journal.

The brick for N. A. Auman's store building and residence have been shipped from the Watsontown brick yards and are being hauled from Coburn.

On Wednesday morning Postmaster R. S. Stover received advice from the first assistant postmaster general that the office at Millheim could close every evening at 6 o'clock. For the accommodation of the patrons of the office, postmaster Stover has decided to close only two evenings a week—Tuesday and Friday evenings at 7 o'clock.

Percival Tharp, an enterprising Penn township farmer, on Tuesday forenoon sustained a badly bruised leg by being kicked by a vicious horse.

Mrs. Lloyd Miller, of near Madisonburg, on Monday morning was operated upon at her home for appendicitis. Dr. R. G. H. Hays of Bellefonte, was the operating surgeon, assisted by Drs. C. S. Musser, H. S. Braucht and P. A. Smith. Mrs. Miller is reported to have stood the operation well.

A teachers' examination was held by County Superintendent D. O. Etters in the Millheim high school room last Thursday. The class was composed of seventeen applicants for certificates.

Heavy Frost.

A temperature of two degrees below the freezing point, Wednesday night of last week, put a crimp in garden vegetation and many beans and tomato plants that had already attained an excellent growth, were frozen dead. Corn was also hurt to some extent.

TOWN AND COUNTY NEWS.

HAPPENINGS OF LOCAL INTEREST FROM ALL PARTS

Don't forget the lecture in Grange Arcadia tonight (Thursday.)

Building operations on the new penitentiary at Rock View have been suspended for the present.

W. F. Bradford was confined to his home for several days last week on account of hemorrhages at the nose.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Hubler of Lock Haven spent Memorial Day at the home of the former's parents in Centre Hall.

Miss May Rhone of Harrisburg was home over Sunday. Roger T. Bayard of Tyrone was also a guest at the Rhone home on Saturday and Sunday.

Eighty-three prisoners were brought from the penitentiary at Allegheny to the new penitentiary at Rock View, last month, and about sixty more will be brought during June.

What is about the smallest baby on record was born to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Long, at Winfield, Union county, last week. It was a little son that weighed but one and three-fourth pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Durst, Edward Durst, Bruce Arney, William Bradford, Misses Laura Mitterling, Blanche Rowe and Maude Meeker attended the commencement exercises of the Bellefonte high school, Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Foreman and son Jay, of State College, spent Memorial Day in Centre Hall and while Mr. Foreman returned to his home that evening, the remainder of the family were entertained over Sunday at the Lycurgus Lingle home.

George Wert, a state forest inspector, was in Centre Hall one day last week and accompanied forester Leonard Barnes over the tract in Green's Valley which the local forester planted in trees this spring. He was thoroughly satisfied with the work in every detail.

John J. Jaquish, one of the agricultural students at Penn State who is aiming to get all out of college life possible, has interested himself in the various corn clubs in Penns Valley and last week made a tour through this section to come in personal contact with the boys.

A message from Harrisburg last week conveyed the tidings that work on the road between State College and Lemont would be begun at once and that concrete bridges would be built over the Thompson springs. Later on a covering of asphalt would be given the approaches and floors.

The Literary Club, composed of a number of the faculty of Pennsylvania State College, were in Centre Hall on Saturday on an outing and took supper at the Centre Hall hotel. In the party were Profs. G. K. Patter, F. I. Patter, A. H. Espenshade, W. S. Ost, O. F. Bourke, E. M. Runkle, Charles W. Stoddart, G. L. Zook, Harry T. Collings, I. R. Foster, and J. M. Willard.

In the class of four graduates from the training school of nurses of the Mercy hospital, at Altoona, Friday evening, was Miss Ferma Eugenia Hoover of Centre Hall. One of the features of the exercises not set down on the program was the presentation to each of the graduates of a beautiful gold pin, the insignia of the institution. The pin is solid gold and has a laurel wreath border within which is inscribed "Mercy Hospital of Altoona, Pa." The reverse side contains the name of the graduate.

The will of barber R. A. Beck, late of Bellefonte, was probated last week. He left an estate of between $30,000 and $35,000, besides insurance to the amount of over $5,000. The entire estate is left in trust with the Bellefonte Trust Co., and the will provides that the income from the estate be used to educate his son and daughter; that $50 a month be given to his wife for her support for five years; that his sister in Philadelphia be paid the sum of two hundred dollars annually. The trust ceases when the youngest child becomes thirty-five years of age, at which time the estate is to be divided equally among the three.

The Centre county Sabbath-school convention, held in the Disciple church at Orviston Wednesday and Thursday of last week, was attended by over one hundred and twenty-five delegates. Three state workers were present and delivered most excellent talks on Sunday-school work. At the close of the session the delegates were taken on a trip to the Orviston clay banks and from there to the brick works, the work of brick-making being described in detail. The delegates present from this section of the county were Mrs. H. W. Kreamer, Mrs. S. W. Smith, Miss Helen Bartholomew, Centre Hall; Miss Orpha Gramley, Spring Mills; Clarence Musser, Penns Cave; Miss Mary Neff and Miss Mary Weaver, Tusseyville.

U. S. CHALLENGES ENGLAND'S RIGHT

Regulation of Routes of Neutral Ships is Attempted.

AN EXPLANATION IS ASKED

The Regulations Involve Questions Which Were Discussed in the American Note Sent to Germany.

Washington.—The last act of Great Britain in a supplemental order-in-council, which practically undertakes to regulate the routes of American and other neutral vessels on the high seas, has forced the United States to challenge her right to make such regulations.

The State Department was startled and chagrined about a week ago to be informed that the British admiralty had undertaken to tell American shipmasters and others that they could approach the Scandinavian countries northward by way of the English Channel only on "permission through their foreign representatives." More drastic than this was the practical ultimatum that if vessels could not get such permission they must take the southabout route west of Ireland, then up the Scotch coast and were not to approach the Shetland Islands "by less than 50 miles."

These regulations involve questions which are discussed in the American note to Germany and which come out sharply in the incident of the Nebraskan. The regulations on their face are unwarranted restriction, officials think, on the rights of neutrals in the open sea. The United States does not admit the right of Germany to stop or regulate American traffic in the English Channel. Now the British government, in addition, assumes to dictate a course for neutrals on the high seas around Ireland and the remote islands of Scotland.

Officials say that no action will be taken immediately, as the note to Ambassador Page on the subject merely asks him to get an "explanation" from the British government.

It is evident, however, that pressure has been brought to bear from some quarter on the United States to make prematurely an issue with Great Britain on points which are a substantial part of the American note to Germany. It has been stated in very high circles in Washington that this government did not propose to make any issue with Great Britain on the questions of blockade, rights of ships on the high seas, mine areas, etc., until Germany had answered President Wilson's note. The present inquiry, however, appears to operate in the interest of Germany. It is thought she may now postpone further her reply until Great Britain has been given a reasonable time to answer the new American inquiry.

WANTS SKILLED MECHANICS.

England Searching For 30,000 To Make Munitions.

Ottawa, Ont.—In a quest for as many of 30,000 skilled mechanics as the Dominion can supply, George N. Barnes, member of the British Parliament from Glasgow, and W. Windham, of the British Board of Trade, reached Ottawa to confer with government officials. Messrs. Barnes and Windham were commissioned by the British government to visit Canada on their mission. The workmen wanted will be employed in the manufacture of war munitions in the British Isles.

BAPTIST BEHIND WILSON.

Northern Convention Indorses the Stand for Neutral Rights.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The Northern Baptist Convention in its closing session here adopted resolutions indorsing the President's stand for neutral rights in the European war and urging national prohibition, the enactment of federal statutes to govern divorce and the strict enforcement of Sunday closing laws everywhere. Another resolution recommended international arbitration as a means of insuring world peace.

RUSSIAN TROOPS IN PERSIA.

Turco-German Agitation Makes Reinforcements Necessary.

Petrograd (via London).—A telegram from Teheran, the capital of Persia, says that Turco-German agitation in that country has assumed a threatening nature. On this account Russia has sent in additional troops to reinforce its contingents at Kasbin and Khry. The Persian government has been notified that this step has been taken solely to protect Russian subjects, and that it implies no hostility to Persia.

BEATTY'S FLEET WINS.

Attackers Outmaneuver Fletcher's Ships and Obtain a Base.

Washington.—Victory for Rear Admiral Beatty's attacking "red" fleet, which out-maneuvered the Atlantic Fleet under Admiral Fletcher and won a position to establish a base in Chesapeake Bay, closed the great war game which has been in progress off the coast for some days.

NEBRASKAN HIT OFF COAST OF IRELAND

U. S. Ship Mined or Torpedoed in War Zone.

NO LOSS OF LIFE ABOARD

British Admiralty Reports She Was Torpedoed — Captain Not Sure Whether He Was Attacked Or Hit Mine.

London.—The American steamer Nebraskan, Captain Green, from Liverpool, May 24, for Delaware Breakwater, was torpedoed by a submarine at a point 40 miles west-southwest of Fasnat, off the south coast of Ireland.

The sea was calm at the time. The crew at once took to the boats and stood by the steamer. It was soon ascertained that the Nebraskan was not seriously damaged. She had been struck forward, and her foreholds were full of water.

The crew returned on board and got the vessel under way. No lives were lost among the crew. The Nebraskan did not carry any passengers.

The foregoing information was received by the British Admiralty in London and it was at once communicated to the American Embassy.

Big Surprise To Officials.

The torpedoing of the Nebraskan was a surprise to American officials here. Apparently it occurred about 9 o'clock. All foreign vessels leaving Liverpool recently have had their names and nationalities painted in large letters on their sides and have flown large flags. The evening was clear, and the period between 8 and 9 o'clock is the twilight hour in the British Islands at this season.

A message to Lloyd's says that an armed trawler went to the assistance of the Nebraskan and stood by her all night.

Washington Waits For Reports.

Washington.—The course of the United States government in the case of the American steamer Nebraskan, damaged off the coast of Ireland, is undetermined because officials are without definite information as to whether the ship was torpedoed or struck a mine.

Messages from Ambassador Page and Consul General Skinner, at London, transmitted the report of the British Admiralty that the vessel had been torpedoed, but officials noted with much interest the captain's report to his owners, indicating a doubt as to whether the Nebraskan was hit by a torpedo or a mine.

President Wilson himself read all the official and unofficial dispatches. In view of the positive position which the United States has taken on the subject of submarines actively in the war zone and the delicacy of the situation with Germany arising out of the Lusitania disaster, the story of the Nebraskan's experience is awaited with unusual interest. Should it develop clearly that she was torpedoed without a warning an aggravating circumstance will have been added to an already tense situation, notwithstanding the fact that no lives were lost.

ELECTROCUTED USING 'PHONE.

Woman Picks Up Receiver While Holding Vacuum Cleaner.

Cranston, R. I.—Mrs. Arthur H. Noyes was accidentally electrocuted in her home when she picked up a telephone receiver with one hand while holding the handle of an electrically operated vacuum cleaner in the other. A short circuit was completed.

SPEYER SAILS FOR NEW YORK.

Former Privy Councillor Leaves England For Holiday.

London.—Sir Edgar Speyer, who recently resigned his Privy Councillorship on account of criticism based on the occupancy of such a position by a native of Germany, sailed for New York on the steamship Philadelphia. He said he was going on a short holiday.

LIEUT. BECKER LOSES LIFE FIGHT

Court of Appeals Upholds His Second Conviction.

MUST GO TO ELECTRIC CHAIR

The Opinion Of the Court Written By the Chief Judge Was Concurred By All But One Of the Jurists.

Albany, N. Y.—Charles Becker, the former New York police lieutenant, must die in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison within the next six weeks for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, the New York gambler, by four gunmen on July 16, 1912, unless Governor Whitman or the United States Supreme Court intervenes. The Court of Appeals of New York affirmed the conviction of Becker by a jury in the Supreme Court at his second trial, held several months ago. The same court granted Becker a new hearing after his first trial on the ground that the presiding Justice Goff had erred.

Executive clemency for Becker is regarded as remote. As district attorney of New York county the present governor prosecuted the former police lieutenant both times, personally conducting the examination of witnesses in the second trial.

The date for Becker's execution may not be set, nor the death warrant signed until next week, owing to the absence of some of the judges from here. The law prescribes that an execution must take place not less than four nor more than six weeks after a decision is handed down. Lieutenant Governor Schoeneck will act as governor during the next 23 days while the Governor is in California. It is not believed that the Becker case will be brought before the acting governor.

The prevailing opinion of the court, written by Chief Judge William Bartlett, held that the second trial was fair and free from error. Judge Hogan alone dissented. He submitted no written opinion. Judge Seabury, who as a Supreme Court judge presided at the second trial, and now is a member of the Court of Appeals, did not sit in the case.

Becker To Die Week Of July 12.

Albany, N. Y.—The Court of Appeals fixed the week beginning July 12 for the execution of former Police Lieut. Charles Becker, convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal. The death warrant was signed by the judges of the court and forwarded to Warden Osborne at Sing Sing prison. Governor Whitman continued to remain silent on the case.

MUST NOT OWN AUTOS.

National Conference Of Dunkards Makes the Decision.

Dayton, Ohio.—At a meeting of the national conference of Dunkards of the United States and Canada, the denominational representatives unanimously decided that members should not own automobiles. This question has faced the church for a number of years. It was also decided not to sell whatever food is left over after the conference, but to give it to the poor. The conference is being attended by 4,000 members. Foot washing among members is being strictly observed.

BOY SCOUTS LOYAL.

Send Pledges To President To Stand By Him.

Washington. — Several hundred pledges signed by Boy Scouts of Norwood, Pa., in which the boys promised to "stand by the President" in the present international situation, were taken to the White House by several of the Boy Scouts in uniforms. The President expressed his warm appreciation. The pledges also carried the signatures of a number of prominent business and professional men of Philadelphia.

NEW BRITISH CABINET COMPLETE

Kitchener Remains, But His Duties Reduced.

CHURCHILL OUT NAVAL POST

Lloyd-George, Former Chancellor Of Exchequer, Becomes Minister Of Munitions, a Newly Created Post.

London.—An official announcement as to the composition of the new cabinet was made by the Press Bureau:

Mr. Asquith remains as premier.

Reginald McKenna, the present home secretary, becomes chancellor of the exchequer.

Sir Edward Grey remains as foreign secretary.

Arthur J. Balfour, the Unionist leader, becomes first lord of the admiralty, to take the place of Winston Churchill.

Lord Kitchener remains as secretary for war.

Lloyd George becomes minister of munitions, a newly-created office.

Winston Churchill becomes chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

A place was offered to John Redmond, the Irish leader, but he refused it.

Premier Asquith retains the portfolio of first lord of the treasury.

Lord Lansdowne takes a seat in the cabinet but without a portfolio.

Some New Faces.

The other members of the new Cabinet follow:

Lord High Chancellor—Sir Stanley Buckmaster, the present solicitor general.

Lord President of the Council—Lord Crewe.

Lord Privy Seal—Lord Curzon, former Viceroy of India.

Home Secretary—Sir John Simon, the present attorney general.

Secretary for Colonies—Bonar Law, leader of the Unionist party.

Secretary for India—Austen Chamberlain.

President of the Board of Trade—Walter Runciman.

President of the Local Government Board—Walter Hume Long.

Chief Secretary to the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland—Augustine Birrell.

Secretary for Scotland—McKinnon Wood.

President of the Board of Agriculture and Fisheries—Lord Selborne.

First Commissioner of Works—Lewis Vernon Harcourt, the present secretary of colonies.

President of Board of Education—Arthur Henderson, chairman of the Parliamentary Labor Party.

Attorney General—Sir Edward Carson, the Ulster leader.

It is announced that the King has conferred the Order of Merit upon Viscount Haldane, the present lord high chancellor, who is retiring from the Cabinet.

Some Surprises.

The cabinet is composed of 12 Liberals, eight Conservatives, one Laborite, Arthur Henderson, and one non-partisan, Earl Kitchener. Thirteen members of the old cabinet remain in office. Of these, Mr. Asquith, Sir Edward Grey, Earl Kitchener, Mr. Runciman, Mr. Birrell and Mr. Wood retain their old portfolios.

ITALY TO STICK TILL FINISH.

Promises Signature To Agreement Of Allied Powers.

London.—Italy has given her adhesion to the agreement already signed by the allied powers not to conclude a separate peace. The signature of a formal document to this effect is imminent. The Austro-German plan of campaign has not yet been disclosed, but it is generally believed that attempts to inflict a quick and decisive defeat or, at least, one that will discourage the Italians will be undertaken largely by the Germans under Field Marshal von Hindenburg.

RUSSIAN WARSHIP LOST.

Berlin Hears From Bucharest Vessel Was Sunk In Black Sea.

Berlin (by wireless to Sayville).—The Overseas News Agency gave out the following: "According to a Bucharest dispatch, the Russian armored man-of-war Winteleimon has been sunk, with 1,400 men, in the Black Sea."

POULTRY TRUST MEN TO PRISON.

Thirteen Convicted, But One Died Pending Appeal.

New York.—Twelve of the 13 members of the so-called "poultry trust," who were convicted in 1911 of conspiring to control the price of poultry in this city and appealed to the higher courts, began serving their three months' sentences Monday.

BOMBS DROPPED ON PARIS.

German Taube Flies Over Northern Suburb Of City.

Paris.—Another German aeroplane of the Taube type flew over the northern suburb of Paris and dropped several bombs. No one was injured by these projectiles.

IMPROVED STATE ROADS BY OVER $300,000

70,000 To 80,000 Men Worked On 5,500 Miles Of Highway Wednesday, May 26.

Harrisburg.—Figures compiled by the State Highway Department from reports sent in by county road superintendents, show that between seventy and eighty thousand men worked on 5,500 miles of highway in observance of the State's first "Good Roads Day," and that if weather had been favorable probably three times that number would have volunteered their services.

In some counties the rain was so persistent that no attempt was made to do any work and "Good Roads" days will be set later. The State Highway Department has agreed to co-operate with all counties which will observe the day.

In five counties more than 5,000 men volunteered their services, these counties being Allegheny, Butler, Fayette, Somerset and Washington. In Armstrong reports showed 2,431 workers spent the day on the highways and that the final reports would show more because a wide publicity campaign was carried on by local people. Fayette leads in number of workers thus far reported, having 5,750.

It is estimated that the work done represents a donation worth $300,000 and the stone and other material will make the value much more. Governor Brumbaugh and officials of the State Highway Department expressed great pleasure at the results obtained and said that the future effect would be excellent because of local pride aroused.

Chief Engineer Uhler, who toured counties near Philadelphia, said that excellent work was done and the example would be lasting. He said that he thought "Goods Roads Day" had come to stay and that each year would find a stronger sentiment for it.

The following table gives the results by counties:

Nearly every county in the northeastern part of the State reported rainy conditions and in Monroe and Pike counties no attempt was made to do any work. In some of the other counties work was abandoned before noon, while in still others it was not until afternoon that work was begun.

In Blair county fifty car loads of cinders were used on the roads and three car loads of stone.

No Aid For March.

Harrisburg.—Pleas for commutation of the death sentence of George H. March, the Delaware county murderer, were refused by the State Board of Pardons, after application for continuance of the case pending the appeal to the Supreme Court. The effort to continue the case was objected to by District Attorney John B. Hannum, and when overruled Hiram Hathaway, Jr., counsel for March, made an extended argument in behalf of his client, contending that Pennington was the real murderer, and that March should not be held accountable for what the other man, whom he alleged was weak-minded, had done. The board also disposed of several second degree cases.

At the meeting of the Reading Poultry Association, it was decided to hold the annual show December 6 to 11.

SYNOPSIS.

—9—

Le Comte de Sabron, captain of French cavalry, takes to his quarters to raise by hand a motherless Irish terrier pup, and names it Pitchoune. He dines with the Marquise d'Esclignac and meets Miss Julia Redmond, American heiress, who sings for him an English ballad that lingers in his memory. Sabron is ordered to Algiers, but is not allowed to take servants or dogs. Miss Redmond offers to take care of the dog during his master's absence, but Pitchoune, homesick for his master, runs away from her. The Marquise plans to marry Julia to the Duc de Tremont. Unknown to Sabron, Pitchoune follows him to Algiers. Dog and master meet and Sabron gets permission from the war minister to keep his dog with him. Julia writes him that Pitchoune has run away from her. He writes Julia of Pitchoune. The Duc de Tremont finds the American heiress capricious. A newspaper report that Sabron is among the missing after an engagement with the natives causes Julia to confess to her aunt that she loves him. Sabron, wounded in an engagement, falls into the dry bed of a river, and is watched over by Pitchoune. After a horrible night and day Pitchoune leaves him. Julia goes in search of Sabron, reported missing. Tremont takes Julia and the Marquise to Algiers in his yacht, not knowing their errand.

CHAPTER XVI—Continued.

With his godmother he was entirely at ease. Ever since she had paid his trifling debts when he was a young man, he had adored her. Tremont, always discreet and almost in love with his godmother, kept her in a state of great good humor always, and when she had suggested to him this little party he had been delighted. In speaking over the telephone the Marquise d'Esclignac had said very firmly:

"My dear Robert, you understand that this excursion engages you to nothing."

"Oh, of course, marraine."

"We both need a change, and between ourselves, Julia has a little mission on foot."

Tremont would be delighted to help Miss Redmond carry it out. Whom else should he ask?

"By all means, any one you like," said his godmother diplomatically. "We want to sail the day after tomorrow." She felt safe, knowing that no worldly people would accept an invitation on twenty-four hours' notice.

"So," the Duc de Tremont reflected, as he hung up the receiver, "Miss Redmond has a scheme, a mission! Young girls do not have schemes and missions in good French society."

"Mademoiselle," he said to her, as they walked up and down on the deck in the pale sunset, in front of the chair of the Marquise d'Esclignac, "I never saw an ornament more becoming to a woman than the one you wear."

"The ornament, Monsieur?"

"On your sleeve It is so beautiful. A string of pearls would not be more beautiful, although your pearls are lovely, too. Are all American girls Red Cross members?"

"But of course not, Monsieur. Are all girls anywhere one thing?"

"Yes," said the Duc de Tremont, "they are all charming, but there are gradations."

"Do you think that we shall reach Algiers tomorrow, Monsieur?"

"I hope not, Mademoiselle."

Miss Redmond turned her fine eyes on him.

"You hope not?"

"I should like this voyage to last forever, Mademoiselle."

"How ridiculous!"

Her look was so frank that he laughed in spite of himself, and instead of following up the politeness, he asked:

"Why do you think of Algiers as a field for nursing the sick, Mademoiselle?"

"There has been quite a deputation of the Red Cross women lately going from Paris to the East."

"But," said the young man, "there are poor in Tarascon, and sick, too. There is a great deal of poverty in Nice, and Paris is the nearest of all."

"The American girls are very imaginative," said Julia Redmond. "We must have some romance in all we do."

"I find the American girls very charming," said Tremont.

"Do you know many, Monsieur?"

"Only one," he said serenely.

Miss Redmond changed the subject quickly and cleverly, and before he knew it, Tremont was telling her stories about his own military service, which had been made in Africa. He talked well and entertained them both, and Julia Redmond listened when he told her of the desert, of its charm and its desolation, and of its dangers. An hour passed. The Marquise d'Esclignac took an ante-prandial stroll, Mimi mincing at her heels.

"Ce pauvre Sabron!" said Tremont "He has disappeared off the face of the earth. What a horrible thing it was, Mademoiselle! I knew him in Paris; I remember meeting him again the night before he left the Midi. He was a fine fellow with a career before him, his friends say."

"What do you think has become of Monsieur de Sabron?"

Miss Redmond, so far, had only been able to ask this question of her aunt and of the stars. None of them had been able to tell her. Tremont shrugged his shoulders thoughtfully.

"He may have dragged himself away to die in some ambush that they have not discovered, or likely he has been take captive, le pauvre diable!"

"France will do all it can, Monsieur . . ."

"They will do all they can, which is to wait. An extraordinary measure, if taken just now, would probably result in Sabron being put to death by his captors. He may be found tomorrow—he may never be found."

A slight murmur from the young girl beside him made Tremont look at her. He saw that her hands were clasped and that her face was quite white, her eyes staring fixedly before her, out toward Africa. Tremont said:

"You are compassion itself, Mademoiselle; you have a tender heart. No wonder you wear the Red Cross. I am a soldier, Mademoiselle. I thank you for all soldiers. I thank you for Sabron . . . but, we must not talk of such things."

He thought her very charming, both romantic and idealistic. She would make a delightful friend. Would she not be too intense for a wife? However, many women of fashion joined the Red Cross. Tremont was a commonplace man, conventional in his heart and in his tastes.

"My children," said the marquise, coming up to them with Mimi in her arms, "you are as serious as though we were on a boat bound for the North Pole and expected to live on tinned things and salt fish. Aren't you hungry, Julia? Robert, take Mimi to my maid, will you? Julia," said her aunt as Tremont went away with the little dog, "you look dramatic, my dear; you're pale as death in spite of this divine air and this enchanting sea." She linked her arm through her niece's. "Take a brisk walk with me for five minutes and whip up your blood. I believe you were on the point of making Tremont some unwise confession."

"I assure you no, ma tante."

"Isn't Bob a darling, Julia?"

"Awfully," returned her niece absent-mindedly.

"He's the most eligible young man in Paris, Julia, and the most difficult to please."

"Ma tante," said the girl in a low tone, "he tells me that France at present can do practically nothing about finding Monsieur de Sabron. Fancy a great army and a great nation helpless for the rescue of a single soldier, and his life at stake!"

"The Ornament, Monsieur?"

"Julia," said the marquise, taking the trembling hand in her own, "you will make yourself ill, my darling, and you will be no use to anyone, you know."

"You're right," returned the girl. "I will be silent and I will only pray."

She turned from her aunt to stand for a few moments quiet, looking out at the sea, at the blue water through which the boat cut and flew. Along the horizon was a mist, rosy and translucent, and out of it white Algiers would shine before many hours.

When Tremont, at luncheon a little later, looked at his guests, he saw a new Julia. She had left her coat with the Red Cross in her cabin with her hat. In her pretty blouse, her pearls around her neck, the soft flush on her cheeks, she was apparently only a light-hearted woman of the world. She teased her aunt gently, she laughed very deliciously and lightly flirted with the Duc de Tremont, who opened a bottle of champagne. The Marquise d'Esclignac beamed upon her niece. Tremont found her more puzzling than ever. "She suggests the chameleon," he thought, "she has moods Before, she was a tragic muse; at luncheon she is an adorable sybarite."

CHAPTER XVII.

Out of the Desert.

From a dreamy little villa, whose walls were streaming with bougainvillea, Miss Redmond looked over Algiers, over the tumult and hum of it, to the sea. Tremont, by her side, looked at her. From head to foot the girl was in white. On one side the bougainvillea laid its scarlet flowers against the stainless linen of her dress, and on her other arm was the Red Cross.

The American girl and the Frenchman had become the best of friends. She considered him a sincere companion and an unconscious confederate. He had not yet decided what he thought of her, or how. His promise to remain on the yacht had been broken and he paid his godmother and Miss Redmond constant visits at their villa, which the marquise rented for the season.

There were times when Tremont thought Miss Redmond's exile a fanatical one, but he always found her fascinating and a lovely woman, and he wondered what it was that kept him from laying his title and his fortune at her feet. It had been understood between the godmother and himself that he was to court Miss Redmond a' l'americaine.

"She has been brought up in such a shocking fashion, Robert, that nothing but American love-making will appeal to her. You will have to make love to her, Robert. Can you do it?"

"But, marraine, I might as well make love to a sister of charity."

"There was la Belle Heloise, and no woman is immune."

"I think she is engaged to some American cowboy who will come and claim her, marraine."

His godmother was offended.

"Rubbish!" she said. "She is engaged to no one, Bob. She is an idealist, a Rosalind; but that will not prevent her from making an excellent wife."

"She is certainly very beautiful," said the Duc de Tremont, and he told Julia so.

"You are very beautiful," said the Duc de Tremont to Miss Redmond, as she leaned on the balcony of the villa. The bougainvillea leaned against her breast. "When you stood in the hospital under the window and sang to the poor devils, you looked like an angel."

"Poor things!" said Julia Redmond. "Do you think that they liked it?"

"Liked it!" exclaimed the young man enthusiastically, "couldn't you see by their faces? One poor devil said to me: 'One can die better now, Monsieur.' There was no hope for him, it seems."

Tremont and Marquise d'Esclignac had docilely gone with Julia Redmond every day at a certain hour to the different hospitals, where Julia, after rendering some slight services to the nurses—for she was not needed—sang for the sick, standing in the outer hallway of the building open on every side. She knew that Sabron was not among these sick. Where he was or what sounds his ears might hear, she could not know; but she sang for him, and the fact put a sweetness in her voice that touched the ears of the suffering and uplifted those who were not too far down to be uplifted, and as for the dying, it helped them, as the soldier said, to die.

Tabloid Aeroplanes.

The British reason, quite logically, that the smaller the aeroplane and the faster it can fly the less danger of its being hit by shots fired from earth. So the British airmen favor an unusually small machine, which they call the "tabloid." A very light frame is fitted with an 80-horsepower motor, which will drive the frail machine through the air at the rate of 100 miles an hour. The engine is covered with armor. The aviator seeking to drop a bomb on the enemy approaches his target at a height of 5,000 feet. When straight above it, he turns the nose of his machine straight down and drops at terrific speed. When within 500 feet of the target he drops his bombs as quickly as possible and then shoots skyward at a tremendous pace. —American Boy

Battleship Majestic Torpedoed in the Dardanelles.

PRINCESS IRENE BLOWN UP

Only One Man Of Crew Of Naval Auxiliary Vessel Survives Disaster In English Port—Most On Majestic Saved.

London.—Destruction of the British battleship Majestic by an enemy submarine in the Dardanelles and of the steamer Princess Irene, an auxiliary of the British Navy, by an accidental explosion in Sheerness Harbor was announced by the Admiralty.

In announcing the torpedoing of the Majestic, which follows closely upon the heels of the similar destruction of the battleship Triumph, the Admiralty states that most of those on board the vessel were rescued.

On the Princess Irene, however, 327 lives were lost.

One Survivor At Sheerness.

The Admiralty's statement concerning the loss of the two vessels says:

"An enemy submarine torpedoed and sank H. M. S. Majestic, Capt. H. F. C. Talbot, while it was supporting the army on the Gallipoli Peninsula. Nearly all the officers and men were saved.

"On the same date H. M. auxiliary ship Princess Irene was accidentally blown up in Sheerness Harbor. So far as is known only one survivor, a stoker named David Willis, was picked up. He sustained burns from the explosion."

The Princess Irene, a steel twin-crew steamer of 6,600 tons register, built last year for the Canadian Pacific British Columbia coast service and taken over by the Admiralty at the commencement of the war, was at anchor at Sheerness, where she was undergoing repairs. All her crew, numbering about 250, except one seaman, and, besides, 78 dockyard workmen, who were aboard at the time, lost their lives.

FRENCH ADVANCE MOVEMENT

Germans Driven From Position In Cemetery — French Take 400 Prisoners and Several Officers.

Paris.—The following official communication was issued by the War Office:

"In Belgian, along the Yser canal, intermittent artillery engagements have taken place. In the sector to the north of Arras the day has been marked by several actions of an intense character which gained for us a new success.

"In the region of Angres, the enemy delivered two counter-attacks, but was twice repulsed. We remain masters of the positions conquered by us. The German losses were very heavy.

"Farther to the south, to the east of Ablain, a vigorous attack by the troops who had previously taken Carency and the greater part of Ablain resulted in the occupation of the German trenches in front of the cemetery of that village. Immediately afterward we carried the cemetery itself, where the enemy was strongly organized, and we then advanced beyond the cemetery. We took 400 prisoners, among whom were several officers.

"In the region of Ecurie and Roclincourt there has been a severe artillery combat. Between Arras and the Vosges the day was calm."

RAID GERMAN WAR PLANT

18 French Aviators Drop 83 Bombs On Ludwigshafen, Setting Factory On Fire.

Paris.—An official statement issued describes more fully the French raid on Ludwigshafen, where important munitions factories are reported to have been set on fire and partly destroyed. The statement reads as follows:

"The aeroplanes which bombarded Ludwigshafen numbered 18. They took the air at 3 A. M. Thursday. The works of the Badische, Anilin and Soda-Fabrik Company, the largest explosives factory in Germany, occupy an entire quarter of Ludwigshafen, near Mannheim, and an important annex has been established near Oppau, a mile and a half from Ludwigshafen.

"The aeroplanes threw forty-seven 1-inch bombs and two 6-inch bombs on the main establishment, and thirty-six 1-inch bombs on Oppau. All the bombs reached the mark.

"Toward 6.15 three enormous columns of yellow flames could be seen at Ludwigshafen and at 6.30 the aviators saw Ludwigshafen and Oppau covered by vast volumes of smoke.

"The aeroplanes were fired at, but all returned except one. According to the pilots, the latter machine was obliged to land at Ludwigshafen and was seen to be in flames as soon as it landed. They believe that the landing, which was caused, no doubt, by the enemy's fire, was effected normally and that the pilots burned the machine to prevent it from falling into the hands of the Germans."

Boy Kills Friend By Accident With Musket—Walks 20 Miles At 76; Wins Prize—Suffragists Organize In Montgomery Co.

The highest scholastic honors bestowed upon Seniors at the Pennsylvania State College were awarded to Harvey T. Hill, of Sandy Lake, Mercer county, Pa.; H. S. Smith, of Waynesboro, and George W. Luersen, of Reading. Hill was voted the John W. White fellowship, carrying $400 to assist paying for a year's graduate study at any institution of his selection. Smith was made Hill's alternate. To Luersen, who will be graduated with the highest general average for his college course ever attained by a Penn State student, goes the John W. White medal for excellence in scholarship.

Following addresses by Mrs. Frank M. Roessing, president of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage Association; Mrs. Anne Orme, of Wayne county, organizer, and Della Potter, of Brooklyn, woman suffragists of Montgomery county organized at Norristown Young Women's Christian Association. Mrs. Brown, of Ardmore, was elected county leader; Mrs. George Carson, of Plymouth Meeting, vice-leader; Mrs. Morrell, secretary, and Mrs. Barnes, of Lansdale, treasurer. Headquarters will be opened in Norristown shortly. It was decided to raise $10,000 to carry on the campaign for equal suffrage.

As Norman Kressly, seventeen years old, of Slatedale, in the upper end of Lehigh county, was showing a party of companions the working of an old army musket that had stood unused in a corner of his father's home for many years, his chum, Roy Lentz, also seventeen, came riding around the corner of the barn on his bicycle. Kressly pulled the trigger and the charge entered Lentz's heart, killing him almost instantly. Kressly is grief stricken and is being guarded for fear he will end his life.

The Board of Managers of the Glen Mills School for Boys decided that nothing would be done in the case of Thomas Joseph Long, of Philadelphia, who died at the school on Sunday, May 16, after a tussle with another boy. Long received a blow over the heart. His death was pronounced due to natural causes, and the blow as only incidental.

Dr. C. J. Marshall, State veterinarian, issued an order at Pittsburgh prohibiting the shipment into Pennsylvania of live stock from any point in Kentucky, specifying that this did not include horses. The quarantine was brought about by the receipt of several carloads of hogs shipped from Louisville and found to be infected with the foot and mouth disease.

As a result of a riot over the European war between Austrian and Russian residents at Bethlehem, the police have made ten arrests, but the hearing in the cases will not take place until several of the combatants have returned from the hospital where their injuries are being attended to.

The general committee in charge of raising $150,000 for a new hospital building in Easton, which began its preliminary work, was startled by receiving, entirely without solicitation, a gift of $7,000 from Mrs. William E. Atwater, of West Hampton, L. I., daughter of the late Colonel and Mrs. Jacob Hay, of Easton.

Mrs. Bertha Nones, testifying in the divorce action against her husband, William I. Nones, Jr., of Overbrook, said that she was ordered to leave as the husband no longer loved her. A divorce was granted by Judge Wagner.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Colyer are contemplating an auto trip to the state of New Jersey, the latter part of this week.

Prof. and Mrs. William A. Heckman moved from State College on Tuesday into their new home, recently purchased from G. M. Boal.

Unclaimed letters in Centre Hall postoffice, June 1: Mrs. Edward Nearhoof, Mr. R. D. Killiar, Mr. R. W. Cox.—S. W. Smith, Postmaster.

Mrs. Mary Rearick and daughter, Miss Savilla, attended the county W. C. T. U. convention at Hublersburg, the former as a delegate and the latter as an officer.

The Lycoming opera house, one of the finest buildings in Williamsport, was totally destroyed by fire early Monday morning. The cause is attributed to defective wiring. The loss is estimated at $175,000.

J. I. Shaffer of Loganton treats his corn ground with ground limestone instead of burned lime. Reports from different experiment stations show that the former is equal to the latter as a producer and is considerably less expensive.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Raymond of Muncy, their daughter, Mrs. Lynn Kerstetter of Pottsville, and Miss Frantz of Muncy, were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Riter on Saturday. Mr. Raymond is an uncle of Mrs. Riter.

Prof. John T. Marshman of State College will preach in the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock. This is in addition to the service for which he has already been announced on Children's Day, Sunday afternoon, June 13th. These will be his last services in Centre Hall before entering on his summer Chautauqua work which will occupy him for ten weeks.

Among the automobile parties from a distance who stopped with the Reporter to say a few kind words was one from Montgomery, the town that manufactures furniture. The gentlemen were all connected with the Montgomery table works and were these: R. M. Miller, superintendent; Raymond Barlet, machine foreman; Claude Miller, son of the former, bookkeeper, and E. G. Hartranft, shipping clerk. The route was by way of Lock Haven, Centre Hall, Penns Cave, and Lewisburg.

A committee of the Bellefonte lodge, I. O. O. F., met a committee of the local order on Monday evening to make arrangements for the transferring of the Sunbury Orphanage band to Bellefonte to feature the parade on Wednesday of Old Home week. The band will be in Centre Hall from Friday evening, July 2 until the 4th, when the lads will be conveyed to Bellefonte. The following members of the Bellefonte lodge attended the meeting: Thomas Morgan, Harry Everhart, Nevin Cole, Harry Clevenstine, and Willis Wion.

Labored on Good Roads' Day.

The large list of names enumerated below proves conclusively that the Governor's Good Roads' Day proclamation was well thought of in the south precinct of Potter township. Fifty-four men and twelve teams turned out and labored all day on the roads in that section and although the weather proved a handicap to good work tangible results were obtained. Those who took part in the movement were:

LOCALS

June—the month of roses and blushing brides—is with us.

Prof. J. D. P. Smithgall, principal of Franklin's schools, spent a few days with his family in Centre Hall.

Mrs. Emma S. Breon publishes letters of administration on the estate of her deceased husband, in this issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Meyer of Reedsville spent several days at the home of the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Meyer.

Mrs. Henry Hammond and children of Fort Wayne, Indiana, are spending a week or more at the home of Mrs. Hammond's aunt, Mrs. Edward Brown.

The inside walls of the borough reservoir were repaired beginning of the week. The work was done by Messrs. John H. Horner of Tusseyville and W. C. Boozer.

Judging from the large number of residences improved by paint during the past few weeks one would suppose that a regular "Paint Up" campaign was on in the borough.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Faxon and daughter Hazel, of Boalsburg, passed through Centre Hall on Tuesday. Mr. Faxon is employed in the store of his father-in-law, A. J. Hazel, at Boalsburg.

'Squire Brungart has an orchard of young peach trees that give great promise of producing an abundance of the fruit. They appear to have been damaged very little by the heavy frost of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Ammon R. Burkholder and daughter of Philipsburg, New Jersey, are spending a week at the home of Mrs. Burkholder's mother, Mrs. M. E. Strohm. Their short stay is due to the fact that they are building a home this summer and Mr. Burkholder wants to be "on the job" during the building operations.

D. W. Bradford on Friday returned from a trip to West Virginia in the interest of the DeLaval Cream Separator Company. He reports that farmers in that state have made wonderful progress since his visit there three years ago and that land which lay in a barren state at that time has been made to yield big returns for the farmer through scientific methods.

Mrs. Jennie Ruble was among the Reporter callers last week, the first time in fourteen years. Mrs. Ruble has been living in Greensburg, but for the present will stay with friends and relatives in Penns Valley. Her son Harry, who was a boy of five or six years when the family left Centre Hall, is an electrical engineer, and with his wife and four children is living in Greensburg.

Lee W. Frazier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Frazier of near Spring Mills, was the winner in the junior declamatory contest for the W. F. Reynolds prize, held in the Bellefonte high school Monday evening of last week. His subject was "The return of Regulus," and out of a list of ten contestants he was awarded first prize, which was $10.00, for displaying the highest oratorical ability. Residents about Tusseyville, his home town, will not be greatly surprised, however, because of his success, for he has long been considered the best public speaker among the many young people in that part of the county.

BOALSBURG.

Edwin Rupp of Altoona spent Monday at this place.

Norman Slagle spent Memorial Day at his home near Lock Haven.

Miss Annie Kaup of Howard spent Saturday and Sunday at Boalsburg.

Brush Valley.

Our roads through here certainly need fixing.

Some of our people are attending evangelistic meetings at Millheim.

James Bartges of Sugar Valley is visiting his son, Windom, at this place.

Many new wire fences are being made through this valley.

Some corn is being worked by the farmers at present.

The big bird, known as the stork, visited the home of Scott Rachau on Sunday and left them a daughter.

Mrs. George Tressler and Mrs. L. C. Miller are both getting along fine.

Israel Rachau is improving slowly.

Caterpillars are very plentiful, eating the leaves clean from the trees.

Last week we had a heavy frost, which froze vegetables, fruit and corn.

Monday decoration was observed throughout the valley.

On June 19th the Knights of Golden Eagles will have their decoration and parade at Madisonburg at 5:30 p. m. A big time is expected as several other castles will participate. The baseball team will hold a festival in the evening.

For an example of making road our supervisors should go to Miles township.

PENN HALL

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Snyder and children from Jersey Shore are visiting at the home of the latter's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Orvis McCormick.

Mrs. Wallace Walker Shot in Hand While Feeding Chickens—Joseph Corman Arrested—Peculiar Circumstances in Case.

On Monday morning the residents of Brushvalley were aroused over what appeared to have been an attempt to take the life of Mrs. Wallace Walker who was shot in the hand while in the yard feeding the chickens. The same day Mr. Walker caused the arrest of Joseph Corman, a neighbor, who waived a hearing and was placed under $1000 bail by 'Squire J. P. Musser, of Millheim, for appearance at September court.

It appears that "bad blood" has existed for some time between the Walkers and Cormans, who live at the cross roads, two miles west of Rebersburg. The story as told by Miss Irene Boob, who is employed as a domestic in the Walker home, in substance is as follows: On Monday she (Miss Boob) and Mrs. Walker left the house to feed the chickens, Mrs. Walker carrying a wash basin which contained the feed. While in the act of throwing feed to the fowls a shot was heard, the bullet whizzing overhead. Neither lady thought anything of the matter but a second shot proved more alarming when it narrowly missed hitting Miss Boob, the bullet passing through her hat, striking the basin which Mrs. Walker held and passing through it and also through the fleshy part of the left hand which held the receptacle. With a scream Mrs. Walker fell to the ground in a faint, and, to make the deed more dastardly, a third shot was fired which passed over the prostrate form of the woman. Hearing the screams emitted by the women, two boys—hirelings on the place—started in the direction of the shooting and claim they saw Corman pass by on the way to his home, holding his hand close by his side as if attempting to conceal something. On the strength of the boys' observations Mr. Walker caused the arrest of Corman.

A mysterious feature of the shooting is that the parties who figured so prominently claim that the distance from where Corman is said to have been standing to where Mr. Walker fell is a distance of twenty-six steps, while an examination of Mrs. Walker reveals the fact that she is powder burnt, which could not be possible at so great a distance.

Mr. Corman denies all knowledge of the shooting and stated that he has not had a gun in his hands for several months. He is a man held in high esteem in his locality and there are many who place no credence in the story as it is given. The case is a puzzling one.

The W. C. T. U. Convention.

The most enthusiastic county W. C. T. U. convention held in a long while adjourned after holding its fourth session Wednesday morning at Hublersburg. There were present a large number of delegates from all sections of the county, whose reports from the societies they represented were most flattering. The additions of members during the past six months was unusually large, and the county treasury is well filled for future work.

The portions of the program filled by the young people in the Hublersburg community were most delightful. The singing and the speaking was thoroughly enjoyed by every one in the large audience. Their performance pointed directly to benefits obtained from instruction in a handsome brick building down the way a block.

The principal speaker was Mrs. Addie P. Parcels whose address on Tuesday evening was of such importance that it is regretted that every word of it could not be printed here.

Reed-Dunkleberger.

J. C. Reed and Miss Katharine Dunkleberger were united in the holy bonds of matrimony at the Presbyterian Manse, by Rev. Dr. W. H. Schuyler, Thursday afternoon of last week. Mr. Reed owns a fine productive farm which is located on the road leading from Boalsburg to Oak Hall. The place contains all new buildings, and the home is an ideal place being of the "cottage" style of architecture and surrounded by fine growing fruit trees. Miss Dunkleberger is from Pleasant Gap and for several years has been keeping house for Mr. Reed. The best wishes of the community go with them.

KEEFER-BRUNGART NUPTIALS.

Event Solemnized at Home of Bride's Parents in Centre Hall, Wednesday Morning.

Wednesday morning at ten o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, in Centre Hall, Miss Cora A. Brungart and Thomas M. Keefer were united in marriage by Rev. D. F. Kurtz, pastor of the bride. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties witnessed the ceremony. Following the wedding dinner they were conveyed to Bellefonte by L. L. Smith where they boarded the 1:18 train. They will spend their honeymoon period in Washington, D. C., and other points. They will make their home in Youngwood.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Brungart and is an accomplished young woman of spotless character and noble purpose, who has a wide circle of admiring friends. The groom is a promising young man who holds a responsible position in the main office of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company at Youngwood.

The Reporter extends hearty congratulations.

BIG CROWDS AT REVIVALS.

1400 People Present Sunday Evening Which Taxed Tabernacle to Its Capacity.—Good Work Being Done.

The meetings during the past have been very well attended in spite of the bad weather. More than 1000 people were present on Friday evening, which was especially recognized as musical night. On Sunday, regardless of the weather, the meetings were well attended. The morning service at 10 o'clock was especially given to that of a consecration service for the Christians. Evangelist Paul Brown made a call for persons who would give their assistance in the meetings as personal workers and a goodly number came forward and offered themselves. These were organized later in the day so that the work will go forward with great dispatch.

In the afternoon an invitation was given and one young man came forward and dedicated his life to Christ. In the evening the tabernacle was full, some even standing. As it is arranged so that approximately 1400 people can be seated it is not an exaggeration to say that many were present. Mrs. Parcells, state worker of the W. C. T. U., gave the first address of the evening and this was followed by a short sermon by the evangelist. Another invitation was given and another person came out on the Lord's side. Everything points to a great ingathering of souls for Millheim and the community around about.

Meeting at 7:30 each evening except Monday evening. Friday evening "Musical Night." On Sunday at 3 p. m., there will be a special meeting for men only. This admits boys over twelve years of age. It is the request of the evangelist that fathers bring their sons and sit beside them during the service. Three services Sunday: 10:30 a. m., 3:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m.

Group prayer-meetings are being held at 10 a. m. in four sections of the town, and a business men's prayer-meeting at 11:50 a. m., lasting ten minutes, in one of the business places of the town.

A great spirit of unity seems to be working among the people and the prospects are bright for a great meeting.

Community Picnic at Spring Mills.

Thursday, June 24th, is the time set for the community picnic at Spring Mills. A more definite announcement will appear next week.

Eleven of May's thirty-one days were wet, and the rainfall for that time was almost four inches.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Housman and Mrs. McGinnis, of Millheim, spent Sunday at the home of the former's brother-in-law, Clyde Stover.

Miss Pearl Kurtz, a student in the conservatory of music at Syracuse University, New York, is at the home of her parents, Rev. and Mrs. D. F. Kurtz.

Mrs. Samuel Gingerich was siezed with an attack at the heart while in town Friday evening and was compelled to remain at the home of Dr. H. H. Longwell until the next morning.

Mrs. F. H. Glenn and three children of Altoona spent Sunday at the L. L. Smith home, going from there to the home of Mrs. Glenn's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Foreman, at State College.

A straight one hundred dollars is what J. C. Goodhart of Centre Hill realized on a fine Holstein bull which he delivered to the butcher last week. The animal was a perfect one and tipped the scales at 1485 lbs.

The Kerlin Grand View Poultry Farm shipped eight hundred chix to the sanitarium at Cressor, Friday of last week. They will be raised for the purpose of providing the main article of diet for the patients next winter.

E. F. Ripka assisted his friend, C. M. Smith, at Coburn, on Thursday, to put the knife in prices on goods in the store which the latter recently purchased. Mr. Smith is determined to "clean house" and is not concerned about prices.

DEATHS.

Francis Long died at his home between Millheim and Coburn on Tuesday noon of blood poisoning resulting from the cutting of a corn. He was aged eighty-seven years and was a retired farmer. Funeral service will be held Friday morning in the Reformed church at Aaronsburg and burial made there. His wife died thirteen years ago, but he is survived by three children, namely, Alfred Long, Haines township; William, at home; Mrs. Ezra Keen, Millheim. Also one brother and one sister—Jesse Long and Mrs. Kate Breon—both of State College.

Mrs. C. E. Emerick, aged fifty-six years, wife of Dr. Emerick, died at her home 2154 North Fifth street, Harrisburg, Thursday morning at 8 o'clock, from cancer. The body was taken to Shirleysburg, Huntingdon county, Saturday morning. The funeral and interment took place Sunday at that place. Dr. Emerick removed to Harrisburg from Centre Hall about twelve years ago.

PLAYERS HARM GAME

Promoters Get Little But Experience for Their Pains.

President Gilmore Says Federal League Is Out to Win, From Both Public and Organized Ball—Not Huge Success.

"It is a shame," declares President Gilmore of the Federal league, "that the lawyers and the players are getting all of the money now made in the national game. The promoters have little but experience for their pains. Peace and readjustment is bound to come in time and the sooner the better for all concerned.

"Mind you, the Federal league is in the field until it gains its point. The men behind it are determined to win, from both the public and organized baseball, the boon of major league recognition. I do not attempt to claim that the Federal league has been a financial success everywhere. The backers of the various clubs did not expect to reap financial harvests at the start. They were content from the start to await the readjustment of the game, which they are bound to force.

"But getting back to the folly of this prolonged war. There are many players in our league and in the National and American leagues, too, who are at best only a heavy burden to their employers. Their services cannot be dispensed with because they have been able to take advantage of chaotic conditions to extract iron-bound contracts at salaries far beyond their real worth. The rank injustice to the promoters lies in the fact that these men are utterly indifferent about their moral obligations to those who pay salaries.

"The principles of the Baseball Players' fraternity are doubtless logical and sound. But here again the undesirable element of the profession—the men who are content to accept money for loafing—has gone altogether too far. The association has been used in some cases as a fulcrum to pry loose salary increases. These unfortunate conditions may not be alleviated while the rival forces of baseball are at each other's throats. That is why I declare further continuation of the fight is a shameful waste of time and money."

OSCAR VITT HAS GRIEVANCE

Claims He Is Abused Because Rated as Utility Player and Is Forced Into Game Every Day.

Oscar Vitt is there with a grievance. He claims that he is being abused, because he's officially rated as a utility player, and is being forced to get into the game regularly, day after day.

"I'll lose my reputation," he said one afternoon, "if Moriarity don't play a game occasionally. Folks will begin to think I'm a regular ball player, instead of a substitute."

Vitt shines at third, is a good shortstop and can play second acceptably. But his aspirations are for the outfield. He explained this in a recent conversation.

"I can't play these gardens, I guess," he said. "They call me Hon-dini. But you observed, didn't you, that Tyrus signed his contract, in 1913, just a few days after he had a chance to read what the papers said about my work in the outfield."

Oscar Vitt.

Makes Bill Clymer Squirm.

Bill Clymer, now managing the Toronto International team, squirms every time he reads about Walter Pipp making good. Clymer, it seems, once had a chance to buy Pipp for $300.

PRESENT-DAY PLAYERS TAKE NO CHANCES

Ned Hanlon, manager of the famous Baltimore Orioles, one of the greatest teams ever organized, says that players of the present day fail to reach sublime heights in the baseball art because they do not take chances, being afraid of injuries. Hanlon, who is now with the Baltimore Feds, remarked not long ago:

"Ty Cobb is the nearest approach to the old school of the type I had with me in Baltimore. He always plays the game in a fashion to put even the slightest percentage in his favor. Cobb makes a serious study of the game because he is ambitious to be the undisputed leader of his craft.

"He is about the only one who will take desperate chances in desperate situations—he and Johnny Evers. I mean that these fellows would not hesitate to bunt with two strikes and no balls even with two out if there was the proper setting to cross the rival infield.

"Jennings was the greatest of shortstops. He never would budge from his position to cover on a hit-and-run play until he saw where the ball was hit. He would take the throw over second while on the dead run and if there was a living chance he would get his man. Now the fact that he didn't move until the ball was hit left him in position to go to either the right or the left for a grounder if one developed.

"There is absolutely no reason why no new Jennings has been developed. Maranville and Bush are faster on their feet than was Hugh. They might easily copy his style of play. It is simply a question of learning to make sure of a throw while at top speed. Now as a matter of fact there is less danger in going after a base runner this way than in setting for him. It is the instinct of a base runner to avoid the person of a guardian of a sack. And the fact that Jennings was hurt less than any other player of this day would indicate that it is far easier to tag a man his way."

NOTES of the DIAMOND

West Point has a crack pitcher in Neyland.

Artie Hofman seems to have lost his batting eye.

Fred Clarke of the Pirates released Southpaw Kelly to the Atlanta club.

By the way, this Cuban Luque, pitcher for the Boston Braves, luques good.

Bill Donovan of the Yanks sent Recruit Catcher Pickering to the Richmond International club.

The fans of Philadelphia are not taking kindly to Larry Lajoie, even though the veteran is playing fine ball.

Harry Harper, the Washington pitcher, has a contract that stipulates that he will not have to play ball on Sunday.

• • •

Eddie Collins has played on ten golf courses since February 16. The driver is Eddie's favorite club. He also is some driver in baseball.

Things to avoid saying in the presence of Jack Fournier: "Jacques, you can't play first base," "you can't hit" and "you can't steal bases."

Hughey Jennings of the Tigers has picked up Eddie Stack, former Cub and Phillie, and will give the now local semipro pitcher a tryout.

• • •

The Pittfeds have fallen back on the ancient Davey Jones for the outfield, the highly touted Menoskey having failed to deliver as promised.

In these days when anything can happen, how about suggesting that the world series take place between the American and Federal league winners.

Fielder Jones says that McGraw was desperate and that his attempt to play Benny Kauff in direct violation of the rules of the game was only for advertising purposes.

Walter Johnson has a strong rival for the honor of being the best pitcher in the country. The aforesaid rival is Grover Cleveland Alexander, the mighty flinger of the Phillies.

• • •

George Stallings says timid batters can cure themselves by walking into fast curves and seeing that they do not hurt. The scheme would help the team by killing off the timid batters.

YANKEES HAVE STAR PLAYER

Birdie Cree, Husky Little Outfielder of New York Americans, Is Playing Grand Game.

Birdie Cree of the New York American league team is playing grand ball, both on the defense and offense, and right now is more feared than any other batman on the Yanks' roster. Pitchers all over the circuit say that they would rather have any other man on the team than Cree up in the pinch.

Cree is a natural ball player. He started as an infielder, but the outfield is where he belongs. The first season he was with the Yanks he gave the fans heart failure every time he went after a fly ball. He would run all around it before making the catch. But today he is an excellent judge of a line drive or a high lift, and once he gets his hands on the pellet it is there to stay.

At the bat he oftentimes swings wildly at the ball, but he breaks up many good games by hitting wild pitches around his ear out of the lot. He can hit to any field, being a natural place hitter. He can run 100 yards close in to ten seconds, and has a wing that is about the strongest and most accurate ever possessed by a big league gardener.

Former Umpire a Manager.

George Longanecker, formerly umpire in the Northwestern league, has taken the management of a team in the Montana league.

ALL SEEK FOR HAPPINESS

The One Thing for Which Mankind May Be Said to Have a Universal Desire.

We cannot pick and choose the happenings of life any more than we can select the circumstances of our birth and death; we are but creatures of a wonderful destiny directed by the Almighty. It is said that many tragedies of life might be averted if we "took our medicine like men" and did not put our personal happiness above everything else. It is as natural and to be expected to long for happiness and cling to it as for the flowers to turn to the sun. Happiness is the great lamp of life which lights our way through all sorts of shadows—shadows that blur the vision and make long nights of our days, shadows that terrify by their grotesque shapes and threatening aspects, and shadows that bury in their depths much that we hold most dear. We are jealous of our happiness and guard it as the most precious thing in life and when we watch it go down the long aisles of memory further and further away from our yearning eyes we begin to plead for it, and strive for it, and fight for it. We batter the walks of the past in our vain efforts to call it back before it is too late, and spend long days and waste precious strength in the futile endeavor to clutch it back to our hearts. And all the while, perhaps right at our hands within easy reach, happiness in a new guise stands ready.—Charleston News and Courier.

HOW TO CURE ECZEMA, ITCH AND ALL SKIN DISEASES

Don't suffer any longer with eczema or any other skin trouble. Just apply Hancock's Sulphur Compound to the parts affected and it will stop the itching at once and cure the trouble permanently. Many sufferers from skin troubles have written us that the Sulphur Compound cured them after everything else failed. Mrs. Evelyn Garst, of Salem, Va., writes: "Three years ago I had a rough place on my cheek. It would burn and itch. I was fearful it might be of cancerous nature. I used different preparations, but nothing helped it. One bottle of Hancock's Sulphur Compound cured me completely." To beautify the complexion, remove blackheads and pimples use Hancock's Sulphur Ointment. For sale by all dealers.—Adv.

Chocolate Soldiers.

The soldier's weakness for sweetmeats, to which Mr. Bernard Shaw called attention when he wrote "The Chocolate Soldier," has been abundantly confirmed during the present war. The quantity of sweets consumed by our army in France has been prodigious, while from Cairo comes the news that the Australians have absolutely eaten the place out of chocolate. On the troopships which brought them, too, it was the same. Thus Capt. Bean, the official correspondent with the force, writes: "Our canteen had five times the demand for sweets and soft drinks that was expected and one-fifth the demand for beer."—Westminster Gazette.

MRS. LYON'S ACHES AND PAINS

Have All Gone Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Terre Hill, Pa.—"Kindly permit me to give you my testimonial in favor of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I first began taking it I was suffering from female troubles for some time and had almost all kinds of aches—pains in lower part of back and in sides, and pressing down pains. I could not sleep and had no appetite. Since I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the aches and pains are all gone and I feel like a new woman. I cannot praise your medicine too highly."—Mrs. AUGUSTUS LYON, Terre Hill, Pa.

It is true that nature and a woman's work has produced the grandest remedy for woman's ills that the world has ever known. From the roots and herbs of the field, Lydia E. Pinkham, forty years ago, gave to womankind a remedy for their peculiar ills which has proved more efficacious than any other combination of drugs ever compounded, and today Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is recognized from coast to coast as the standard remedy for woman's ills.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing hundreds of thousands of letters from women seeking health—many of them openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; and in some cases that it has saved them from surgical operations.

KEEP SWINE HEALTHY

Scours in Pigs Often Caused By Improper Feeding.

To Correct Trouble Give Sow Dose of Sulphate of Iron in Her Slop—Keep Young Animals in Dry, Sunny Quarters.

(By A. S. ALEXANDER.)

When young nursing pigs begin to scour it is evident that the milk of the sow is disagreeing with them and immediate attention, therefore, should be directed toward improving her rations. Most often the trouble comes from overfeeding on corn, or other rich food, just after farrowing, and pigs of fat, flabby, cross, nervous, constipated sows are most apt to suffer. Sudden changes of food, or feeding sour swill, or food from dirty troughs also tend to cause diarrhea either in nursing pigs or those that have been weaned, and all such cases should be prevented or removed.

To correct scouring in nursing pigs, give the sow 15 to 20 grains of sulphate of iron (copperas) in her slop night and morning and, if necessary, slightly increase the doses until effective. Lime water may, with advantage, be freely mixed with the slop as a preventive when there is a tendency to derangement, or after the trouble has been checked, and also is an excellent corrective for weaned pigs showing a tendency to scour on slop or skimmed milk. When little pigs are scouring severely, each may be given a raw egg and five to ten grains of subnitrate of bismuth twice daily in addition to changing the food of the sow and mixing copperas in her slop. In cases which do not respond promptly to treatment, success may follow the administration of a dose of castor oil shaken up in milk.

In all cases it is important to set right all errors in diet and sanitation and to provide the pigs with dry, sunny, well-ventilated quarters. The derangement is most apt to occur among pigs kept in insanitary conditions.

Prize-Winning Mule-Footed Hog.

Inactivity of the bowels most often gives trouble in pregnant sows and other adult hogs when given too little exercise and too much rich food. In such animals the liver is torpid, the system feverish and the muscles and other organs overloaded with fat. Constipation seldom troubles where hogs are fed laxative foods, such as bran, flaxseed meal, roots or alfalfa during the winter season, and in addition are made to take abundant outdoor exercise.

In the common diseases of young pigs known as rickets, there is enlargement, bending and distortion of the bones of the joints and limbs, and fractures of leg bones are not uncommon. The bones of the body in affected pigs lack their normal proportion of mineral material and have an excess of vegetable matter. The tendency to the disease is hereditary and most likely to be seen in closely inbred hogs or those of herds kept under insanitary conditions and long imperfectly nourished upon unbalanced rations. The excessive feeding of corn to generation after generation doubtless induces a weakness of constitution conducive to rickets and the disease may appear as a result of any aggravating circumstance productive of malnutrition.

BREEDING ONLY BEST CATTLE

Counterfeit Dairy Cow Has No Place on Pasture or in Feed Yard—Discard Poor Producers.

(By ROUD M'CANN, Colorado Experiment Station.)

The development of the increasing demand for well-bred dairy cattle is based upon the recognition of the fact that under present production conditions, the counterfeit dairy cow has no place on the pasture or in the feed-yard.

During the past few years difficulty of replenishing and starting herds with good animals has confronted the dairy farmer at every turn. High feed bills have demonstrated the futility of expecting satisfactory returns when keeping poor producers, and the wideawake, progressive, businesslike dairymen are centering their demands on merit, of which there must be a greater supply to meet this demand. Foreign competition has created a well grounded impression that the most effective way of evading it is by greater production per animal and better products.

Silo Pays Well.

No building on the farm will pay better returns than a good silo, if properly built and filled on time, and in the right way.

Reduces Farm Drudgery.

The modern equipment in the way of litter carriers and feed carts reduces the drudgery of the barns to a minimum.

HANDY AS POTATO MARKER

Wheelbarrow Arranged With Pine Strips Hinged to Bottom Center Board Proves Satisfactory.

Last spring we had occasion to fit a very stumpy piece of sandy new ground for early potatoes. The one and two horse corn markers would not work because of so many stumps. The wheelbarrow being near with seed up on it a happy thought struck me—this would roll over the rough ground roots, etc., and leave a distinct mark in the soil, besides running easily writes G. A. Randall in Farm and Home.

A half-inch hole was bored through the bottom center board and two pieces, c, of inch pine strips 36 inches long were hinged, as shown, to a center section, e, fastened with a wire through the holes, f, to the bottom board. On the outer ends of these strips a light runner, a, extends to the ground and slants back. These runners with the wheel in the center make three distinct marks when pushed across the field. In coming to a stump either or both sections are easily folded back until the obstruction is passed, then dropped to position again to mark.

Being light and mounted on a center wheel it pushed as easily as a wheel barrow seeder and was extremely easy to guide; marks clear across the field being straight as those made with a line and very distinct. When not in use for a marker the sections are quickly removed.

BURN CHOLERA CARCASSES

Burial of Dead Animals Not Approved by Nebraska Station—Excellent Plan Is Described.

The burial of hogs dying of cholera is not advised by the department of animal pathology at the Nebraska experiment station. The germs of the disease will last a long time in the earth under favorable conditions and are liable to cause a new outbreak. The safest way to dispose of a carcass is to burn it.

Burning may be easily accomplished in the following manner: Dig two trenches a few inches deep intersecting each other at right angles. At the intersection of these, cornstalks, cobs or other fuel may be laid. Over the trenches may next be laid strips of metal to support the carcass. Before being placed over the supports, the abdominal and thoracic cavities should be opened and be liberally sprinkled with kerosene. Then the hog should be placed belly downward over the fuel. As soon as the material in the trenches is ignited, it will rapidly spread to the kerosene and fat and the body will be quickly consumed.

If a large iron wheel is handy, it may be substituted with good results for the trench and iron bars.

IMPROVE YOUR POTATO SEED

Wisconsin Experiment Station Gives Six Excellent Rules for Farmers to Follow.

The Wisconsin experiment station tells the farmers of that state to improve their potato seed.

1. By co-operating with their neighbors in securing pure seed.
2. By planting this foundation stock by itself where it will not be mixed with other varieties.
3. By learning the vine and tuber characteristics of the variety one plants.
4. By discarding as seed all hills which do not have these characteristics.
5. By selecting seed for next year on the field at digging time.
6. By organizing the growers, dealers and others in your community who are interested in the development and improvement of its potato industry.

TREATMENT OF COVER CROPS

Thoroughly Cut Up Clover or Other Crops With Disk Harrow Before Turning Over.

Never turn the clover or other crop under without first thoroughly cutting up with a disk harrow, as the material plowed under in a layer seriously interferes with the capillary action of the moisture in the soil. The effects of turning under in a layer are what is sometimes called souring the soil with green manuring crops.

Double disk the cover crop two or three times with a sharp disk harrow before plowing; plow well by taking a narrow furrow and edging rather than inverting the furrow; then double disk the land again rather deeply, and no injurious effect will result however large the growth may be.

Bulls in Same Enclosure.

If dehorned, bulls of the same or different ages may be safely kept in the same enclosure. When two bulls are kept in adjoining enclosures they should be separated by a strong, high board fence, so they are unable to see each other.

DRIVER WAS BUSINESS MAN

Saw More Profit in Hauling Stranded Automobilist Than in Selling Him Gasoline.

Mack Sennett was going to the San Diego fair in his car. About three o'clock in the morning, and twenty miles from nowhere, Mack found that his supply of gasoline had given out.

There was nothing to do but sit by the side of the road and wait for something to come along, which Mack proceeded to do. He had waited but a few minutes when he heard the sound of wheels on the road and soon a wagon was distinguishable in the dark.

"There's a ten spot in it if you haul me to town," hailed Mack.

The driver readily consented and Mack settled down for a three-hour ride. They were drawing into a little burg when Mack remarked that it was rather early for the driver to be on the road.

"Yes," he replied, "but I have to start early to get around to all my customers."

And as Mack handed him the ten spot for his work, the man continued: "You see, I peddle gasoline to the stores in the small towns around here."—Photoplay Magazine.

Head Bookkeeper Must Be Reliable.

The chief bookkeeper in a large business house in one of our great Western cities speaks of the harm coffee and tea did for him:

"My wife and I drank our first cup of Postum a little over two years ago, and we have used it ever since, to the entire exclusion of tea and coffee. It happened in this way:

"I had an attack of pneumonia, which left me with dyspepsia, or neuralgia of the stomach. My 'cup of cheer' had always been coffee or tea, but I became convinced, after a time, that they aggravated my stomach trouble. I happened to mention the matter to my grocer one day and he suggested that I give Postum a trial.

"Next day it came, and we liked it so much that we will never change back; for I am a well man today and have used no medicine.

"My work as chief bookkeeper in our Co's branch house here is of a very confining nature. During my coffee drinking days I was subject to nervousness and the 'blues' in addition to my sick spells. These have left me since I began using Postum and I can conscientiously recommend it to those whose work confines them to long hours of severe mental exertion."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

Postum comes in two forms:

Postum Cereal—the original form—must be well boiled. 15c and 25c packages.

Instant Postum—a soluble powder—dissolves quickly in a cup of hot water, and, with cream and sugar, makes a delicious beverage instantly. 30c and 50c tins.

Both kinds are equally delicious and cost about the same per cup.

We and the British Have Sweet Tooth.

Britons have the sweetest tooth, and Americans come next, if the statistics for consumption of sugar mean anything. An Englishman eats annually 92.4 pounds, an American consumes 79.2 pounds. In Denmark the average consumption is 72.6 pounds per capita; in Switzerland it is 55 pounds; in Germany, Holland, Sweden and Norway it is from 39 to 44 pounds; in France, 35 pounds; in Belgium, 33; in Austria, 24.2; in Russia, 19.8; in Portugal, 15.4; in Spain and Turkey, 11; in Italy, Bulgaria, Roumania and Serbia, from 6 to 7 pounds.

The principal reason for these variations is found in the relative highness or lowness of the customs duties on sugar and on the things with which it is commonly associated—coffee, tea, etc.

Famous Feats of Archery.

In the days when the buffalo was found in vast herds on the western plains there were Indians who, while riding at a gallop, could send an arrow through a buffalo's body. Remarkable as this archery was, it did not equal that reached by the archers of ancient times. It is of record that the MacReas of Gairlock, Scotland, were such skilled archers that they could hit a man at the distance of 500 yards. In 1794 the Turkish ambassador at London shot an arrow in a field near that capital 415 yards against the wind. The secretary of the ambassador on hearing the expressions of surprise from the English gentlemen present, said the Sultan had shot 500 yards. This was the greatest performance of modern days, but a pillar standing on a plain near Constantinople recorded shots ranging up to 800 yards. Sir Robert Ainslie, British ambassador to the Sublime Porte, recorded that in 1798 he was present when the Sultan shot an arrow 972 yards.—Washington Star.

Templars Vote Against Booze.

Knights Templar, a branch of Masonry, in Pennsylvania, have voted against liquor. By an overwhelming majority the members of the Grand Commandery of this State, who ended their annual conclave in Philadelphia last Wednesday, decided that in the future no man connected, either directly or indirectly, with the liquor business should be admitted to membership in this branch of Masonry.

This blow at the liquor business was taken at the final business session of the grand body. As at all the sesions of the Grand Commandery, only members of that conclave were admitted. The resolution that called forth this action was presented by William Foster, a member of Kadosh Commandery, No. 29, of Philadelphia. It precipitated strong discussion, for a similar motion was presented a year ago, but was tabled. Wednesday its advocates refused to let the matter be downed. When the roll was called the opponents of the resolution were outnumbered nearly 3 to 1. A bare majority would have been sufficient to carry the resolution.

How to Fight Fire-Blight.

Fire-blight, the disease that is reported to be attacking fruit orchards in Southeastern Pennsylvania, is described and methods of treatment are suggested by Dr. F. D. Kern, head of the department of botany at the Pennsylvania State College. He said:

"Fire-blight is a bacterial disease of the apple, pear and quince. Its presence is indicated by the blighting of twigs, from tips downward, to which the leaves cling strongly. The effect is likened to a tree scorched by fire or injured by frost. The first danger in the growing season is the blighting of the flowers, and sometimes the young setting fruits are rotted and destroyed. Large roughened areas often appear on the larger limbs known as the blight canker, in which the bacteria live over winter. Warm, close, moist weather favors the development of the blight and the younger growth is more susceptible.

"Fire-blight can be controlled by giving careful and prompt attention to the removal of all infected parts. Infected twigs and water sprouts should be cut at least six inches below any sign of bark discoloration; all cankers should be cut out and the cuts disinfected with bichloride of mercury in strength of one part to one-thousand of water. This material is very poisonous and should be handled with great care.

"Insects are concerned in the spread of fire-blight and the control of aphis and red bugs should greatly reduce the further spread of the disease."

Dixon's Health Talks.

We have been taught that the tooth brush should be as indispensable from youth to old age as a man's shadow. Indeed the latter might be dispensed with without jeopardizing one's position in polite society.

The primary purpose of the tooth brush is excellent, but it is well remembered that as it is intended to clean, the instrument itself should be beyond suspicion in this regard. The majority of disease germs find their way into the human system through the mucous membrane of the nose and mouth.

If the teeth are not frequently and properly cleaned these germs or bacteria will multiply in cavities or where particles of food have become lodged between the teeth. These minute germ breeding centers should be removed by vigorous brushing but when the desired result is accomplished care should be taken that they do not in turn lodge in the intricacies of the tooth brush. If they remain there they are later retransferred to the mouth.

To guard against this the brush should be thoroughly cleansed before and after using in scalding water if this is obtainable. If not, in some non-poisonous antiseptic wash. At least wash the brush with soap and water and rinse thoroughly.

Care should be taken not to keep a tooth brush where it is exposed to dust and dirt. If there are several members of the family the same receptacle should not be used for the brushes as the germs of disease may readily be transmitted from one brush to another in this manner.

It is well to make use of white thread or dental floss to remove particles from between the teeth which are difficult to remove with the brush. It is from fragments of food that lodge between the teeth that decay often starts.

When you visit the dentist you expect and demand exceptional cleanliness in the care of his instruments. See that your own dental utensils are immaculate.
